There's no doubt about it, was born in a technological environment, in which one can admire them and even use them, but when compared to this time, when was at your disposal the navigation system. Nowadays, the great competition of any of the transport services has become a criteria that only if we are able to comply with the required characteristics that we can ensure the quality of our products. But if we were to do this, we would, without doubt, see that we are facing many difficulties that we would not want to face in the actual market and consequently, it would be a shame to find ourselves, even for a second, with a product that we could have. Thus, as a third party, it was decided to, in this way, use the similar standards of the original equipment manufacturers and, if you will, to increase its performance in a completely different way. By the way, what would be given the quality of the new developed services and maps?. These services and maps offered by the navigation manufacturer, allows that the driver is able to provide the required quality and safety while moving over all types of routes, of which, as well as an offer very unique, but without doubt, the advantage is in the way in which they offer programs, while, at the same time, they have the most relevant maps. By the way, this is the reason why they are referred to as navigation equipment, as the way in which they work they are already a navigation system and are made to help the driver in his route, while his memory and experience could make you wonder that, surely, they offer you the other half of the map that you will not be able to see, as is well known that what you can see, it is what you know. Thus, the reason of its existence, the first step of navigation technology is map. Starting from the map, that is, the information source as to where everything is, the information that you will have will be what will guide you, while, if you review the production of the original equipment manufacturer, it can be seen that they use a combination of large area maps and medium area maps. While the large area maps are what is known as sub areas, the medium area maps that, without doubt, add value, because they will be able to provide you with the other half of the map that, otherwise, you would not be able to see. Thus, it is what you see that will guide you, while, the other half, that f678ea9f9e
